Smartsheet for Federal Government

Make better decisions, faster with a secure work management platform

Whether facing a pandemic, budget constraints, or a changing global landscape, U.S. government leaders are thinking about how technology, agility and innovation can help their agencies respond to evolving challenges and have greater mission impact. Federal agencies must be able to innovate and scale solutions while providing government executives real-time visibility to make data-driven decisions and act quickly to keep pace with the obstacles that face the nation today.

Federal agencies are now able to amplify their impact through collaborative work management platforms. Those closest to the work can be empowered to drive cross-agency innovation and collaboration while federal leaders can track leading indicators, measure improvements, and identify opportunities to create efficiencies and improve outcomes. Countless mission-driven federal workers with great ideas can work across teams to bridge silos, provide visibility to senior leaders, and deliver high-impact results.

Smartsheet Gov provides federal agencies with a FedRAMP and DISA IL4 authorized collaborative work management platform to share data, track and automate tasks, empower teams, and provide real-time visibility to make better decisions, faster. With Smartsheet Gov, federal agencies can bridge silos and build solutions that scale on a secure, compliant platform – without burdening IT.

> " Automating the process of sending out reminder emails for me and the four directors has saved two and a half hours a day. If you average out those hourly pay rates, that's $71,500 in a year that can be now redirected toward actual project management or developing new projects. "
